Typically, opening a digital case was a singular activity. A user would purchase a virtual key, open a digital container, and receive a random product based upon pre-determined drop rates. Case Battles take this precise mechanic and turn it into a multiplayer lobby.

In a basic fight, all participants contribute the same virtual currency or items to purchase a specific set of cases. When the battle starts, the system instantly opens the cases for all players simultaneously. The goal is basic: collect the highest overall product value by the end of the round. The winner takes home all the products dropped during the battle, while the losers leave empty-handed.

3. The Unboxing Phase: Once the lobby is complete, the match starts. The screen displays the rounds, spinning through various potential drops for each participant in real-time.
