Roanoke has some of the most charming older housing stock in Virginia. Old Southwest, Raleigh Court, South Roanoke and Grandin Village are full of homes with original trim, wide door casings, built-in bookshelves and staircases with turned spindles. All that woodwork is beautiful, and all of it collects dust and fingerprints. Washing walls and woodwork is one of the specialized house cleaning tasks offered by The Happy Housekeepers, a Roanoke Valley company since 1979.

Walls and trim get dirty in predictable places. Light switches and door frames pick up fingerprints, stair rails get handled dozens of times a day, and hallways show scuffs from backpacks, vacuum cleaners and pets. Kitchens collect splatter near the stove, while bathrooms gather residue from steam and hairspray. Washing these surfaces brightens a room more than most people expect.

In older homes, woodwork often has crevices and profiles that hold dust. Crown molding, picture rail, wainscoting and window casings all have ledges where grime settles. The standard visit already covers dusting window sills and baseboards, and adding wall and woodwork washing takes care of the rest of the trim so the house looks as good as its architecture deserves.

This service fits naturally into spring and fall cleanings, when many Roanoke homeowners want a top-to-bottom refresh. It also works well before listing a house for sale, after a renovation or before hosting a big event. Clean walls and trim make paint look newer and help rooms photograph better for real estate listings.

The rest of the house gets attention too. Furniture is dusted or polished, carpets vacuumed, hard floors mopped and the kitchen and bathrooms given a complete clean-up. Light fixtures, another specialized service, can be added so ceiling lights and sconces shine as brightly as the freshly washed walls around them.

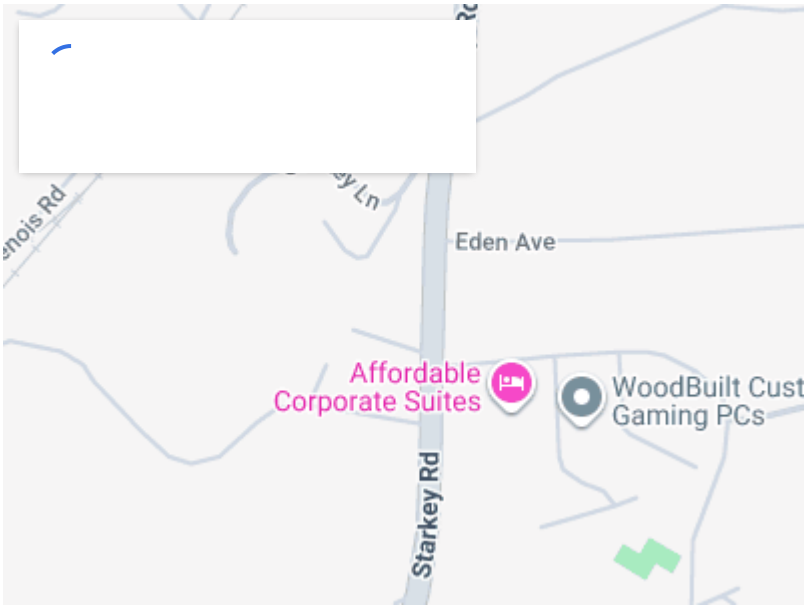

The Happy Housekeepers is licensed, bonded and insured, staff are bonded and insured by the company and the business displays a BBB blue seal. Estimates are free with no obligation, and plans can be one-time, weekly, Additional reading bi-weekly or monthly.

The Happy Housekeepers has been working in houses like these since 1979, long before many of today's renovations, and the family company's reputation for being careful, reliable and honest is a big part of why homeowners trust them with their most valued spaces.
